Biography

As a member of the firm's Labor & Employment Practice Area, Ari counsels businesses in investigating complaints of employee misconduct and discrimination. She also defends employers in discrimination-related matters before the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission (EEOC), the New York State Division of Human Rights, and in state and federal courts. A trained litigator, Ari also represents businesses in breach-of-contract and restrictive covenant litigation.

Ari concentrates a portion of her practice on representing employers with unionized workforces in labor arbitration hearings and post-arbitration litigation. She also assists businesses to ensure compliance with state and federal laws concerning a variety of employment-related issues, including employee applications, contracts, and workplace policies.

Ari's experience in the insurance industry prior to attending law school gives her a unique perspective in defending personal injury and legal malpractice actions.

In addition to her legal practice, Ari hosts Barclay Damon Live: Labor & Employment Podcast. Each week, she welcomes guests to unpack hot topics and discuss new developments in labor and employment law.

Ari also serves as chair of the firm's Next Generation Committee and is a member of the Buffalo office Diversity Leadership Team.
