Biography

Joseph is a registered patent attorney and focuses his practice on litigation and transactional matters. For over a decade, he has engaged in dozens of patent suits in federal courts and before the US Patent Trial and Appeal Board. Matters he has worked on have involved various fields, including open-source software, operating systems, financial models, cellular communications protocols, microchips, pharmaceuticals, medical devices, and aseptic processing.

In transactional matters, Joseph helps clients develop and protect purposeful ideas by securing intellectual property registrations and shaping collaborative relationships. He has represented start-ups, multinational companies, industrial designers, artists, and academics in building, managing, and licensing their portfolios. He primarily prosecutes patents in the fields of software, interactive design, and industrial design.
